- (b) who are involved in events organised by the Trustees.
- (c) who are Trustees, volunteers, helpers, donors, or other supporters

The data stored may also include banking details (account names, account numbers, and bank sort codes) for individuals and organisations to whom the Treasurer needs to make payments electronically.

The Secretary also holds that biographical information about Trustees which is required for their approval by the Charities Commission.

No other sorts of personal information about individuals are requested or maintained.

The data are stored on the computers of Trustees dependent upon their individual areas of responsibility.

Trustees are individually responsible for the information stored on their own computers and are required to:-

- (b) use the data solely for the purposes for which they were obtained
- (c) ensure the data are accurate and up-to-date

- (d) under no circumstances pass any data to a third party without the express consent of the individual concerned. If the information is already in the public domain, as in the case of an individual running a business who publicises their contact details, this permission may be inferred, but care should be taken that any additional private information such as a personal mobile phone number is not released.
- (e) delete the data when no longer required.

3. Access to Data

Booking and application forms inform individuals that their data will be stored for administrative purposes and only for the reasons for which they were obtained, that they will not be released to a third party without their express permission in advance, and that they are entitled to access any of their personal data held by the Hall Trustees to check them for accuracy and to ensure they are being properly used. Any concerns in this respect should be addressed to the Chair or the Secretary.
